📄 Summary About Me

I am eager to learn things in the right way. Before languages or technologies, my focus is to learn how to develop properly. I worked with several languages and made some projects, you can find them in my Github profile. I am trying to improve myself as a developer who can write understandable and maintainable code.

From February 2020 I'm studying web programming. I made projects with Sass, Vanilla JS, React, and tools with React. Also since September I'm working professionally and writing Typescript with Angular.
